Bronze and Brass

It resembles closely brass, which is an alloy consisting mainly, if not exclusively, of copper and zinc.

PHOTOGRAPH SHOT ON HARDEST STEEL

Image Reproduced by the "Munroe Effect."

Washington.—Shooting a photograph into the hardest of chrome steel with the aid of high explosive nitroglatin and re making a photographic record as permanent as the steel itself, is the feat that has been accomplished as a result of the "Munroe effect." This effect was the discovery of Dr. Charles E. Munroe, veteran explosive expert of the United States bureau of mines here. An incidental result of the work is proof that the blacks in a photograph print are due to varying thicknesses of finely divided silver, the thicker the deposit the darker the shadow in the photograph.

How Photograph Was Made.

The steel photograph was made recently by G. St. J. Perrott, superintendent of the bureau of mines experiment station at Pittsburgh and sent by him to Doctor Munroe. To make it a photograph of Doctor Munroe was laid on a piece of steel about two inches in diameter and an inch thick. On top of this was placed a disk-shaped piece of the nitroglatin explosive, which was then fired. Though the paper photograph was completely destroyed, when the steel cooled sufficiently to be handled the profile of Doctor Munroe was found impressed on the surface. Where the photograph had been black, that is, in the shadows, the surface of the steel was raised, and where there had been lights the steel was incised.

Another example of the effect that is in Doctor Munroe's possession now was made by W. G. Snelling, director of research of the Trojan Powder company. In this case the words "Munroe Effect" were impressed into the surface of a block of the explosive, so that the letters were in intaglio. When this was exploded on a disk of the steel the letters appeared on it. However, they were also in intaglio on the steel. This is the opposite from what would be obtained with a die, for then the intaglio letters on the die would come out in relief on the finished product.

Doctor Munroe explains the effect by saying that when the detonation of the explosive occurs, the entire amount of the solid is converted to gas. This volume of gas, however, momentarily has the same size and shape as the original block of explosive and is therefore extremely compressed. Where there was a cavity in the original explosive is the line of least resistance for the escape of the gases, and consequently a vast number of tiny molecular drills, which bore into the hardest steel.

How Safe by Method.

Using the same principle, Doctor Munroe once blew a hole in a safe with a hollow cylinder of dynamite. He took a bundle of sticks of dynamite, then, by punching a hole in the center, he pushed out the center sticks and bound together the other ones so as to form a ring. This he exploded in a vertical position upon a safe. The result was a hole in the top of the safe corresponding to the hollow center in the ring of dynamite sticks. This hollow cylinder had acted as a gun to fire the gas molecules through the steel.

Any thin object, such as a leaf or photograph, can be reproduced on steel in this way, said Doctor Munroe, and so a permanent record can be obtained. The explosion has the effect of greatly magnifying slight differences in thickness, such as between the layers of silver in the shadows and highlights of the photograph.

$30,000,000 Estate Awaits Creek Claimants

Dallas, Texas.—Somewhere in Dallas is a will disposing of an estate valued at $30,000,000, awaiting claimants who live in the Near East, according to a letter received by D. C. Whitsey, county clerk of Dallas county, from Oswald Keun, a lawyer of Alexandra, Egypt.

The letter sets forth that Apostole Cancoulos, a Greek, emigrated from Athens to the United States and settled in Dallas in 1882. He entered the mercantile business and prospered amazingly, investing his money in various enterprises at home and abroad, which brought enormous returns. In 1900 Cancoulos died and left a will, the letter says, bequeathing his estate to relatives who reside in Alexandra and other towns of Egypt, as well as of Greece.

It is surmised that Cancoulos lived here under an assumed name and that also is the theory of Keun that the will was placed in the hands of some Greek friend of Cancoulos in Dallas. It is hoped that the will may be traced by an examination of the probate records of this county.

Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for July 1

THE EARLY LIFE OF SAUL

LESSON TEXT—Deut. 4:4-9; I Sam. 3:4-6; Acts 22:3, 27, 28.

GOLDEN TEXT—Remember also thy Creator in the days of thy youth. Eccl. 12:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Story of Paul as a Child.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Boyhood of a Great Preacher.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Saul's Training for Service.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Influences Shaping Saul's Early Life.

I. Israel's Responsibility With Reference to God's Laws (Deut. 6:4-9).

1. Central truths to be taught (vv. 4, 5).

(1) Unity of God. "The Lord our God is one Lord." He is God alone, therefore to worship another is sin.

(2) Man's supreme obligation (v. 5). God should be loved with all the heart, soul and might, because He is God alone and supreme. This being the first and the great commandment, we know what is man's supreme duty.

2. How these truths are to be kept alive (vv. 6-9).

The place for God's Word is in the heart. In order that it may be in the heart (1) "teach it diligently to thy children" (v. 7). The most important part of a child's education is that given in the home is the Word of God. How sadly this is neglected today! (2) To talk of them in the home (v. 7). This is the right kind of home life. How blessed is that home where God's Word is the topic of conversation. (3) Talk of them when walking with our children and friends (v. 7). (4) Talk of them when retiring for the night (v. 7). The last thing upon which the mind should rest before going to sleep should be God and His truth. (5) Talk of them when rising in the morning (v. 7). How fitting that God should speak to us the first thing when we awake! (6) Bind them upon thine hand (v. 8). This was literally done by the Jews even to the wearing of them in little boxes between their eyes. (7) Write them upon the posts of the houses and on the gates (v. 9). Such a remembrance of God's words would create a spiritual atmosphere most desirable.

II. Saul's Ground of Confidence (Phil. 3:4-6).

He had everything a true Jew gloried in.

1. Circumcised the eighth day (v. 5). This was the literal requirement of the law for those born under the Abrahamic covenant.

2. "Of the stock of Israel" (v. 5). This shows that he was a true Jew, related to the chosen people by blood and birth.

3. Of the tribe of Benjamin.

Benjamin had always remained loyal to the national customs. The first king of Israel, whose name he bore, was of Benjamin.

4. "Hebrew of the Hebrews" (v. 5). This showed that he was of Hebrew parentage and not a proselyte.

5. Touching the law, a Pharisee (v. 5).

The Pharisees were of the sect most zealous for all the rites and ceremonies of Judaism.

6. "Concerning zeal, persecuting the church" (v. 6).

He proved his zeal by positive effort to stamp out that which was threatening Judaism.

7. "Touching the righteousness which is in the law, blameless" (v. 6).

So exactly had he conformed to the outer requirements of the law that he was consciously blameless.

III. A Sketch of Saul's Life (Acts 22:3, 27, 28).

In this sketch he gives us a glimpse of his birth, education and citizenship.

1. His birth (v. 3).

Though born at Tarsus, a city outside of Palestine he had been brought up in a strict Jewish home. Tarsus was the capital of the province of Cilicia. It was a city of prominence because of its commerce and culture. It was one of the three principal university cities of that period.

2. His education (v. 3).

Born out of Palestine, he was sent to Jerusalem for education. This fact shows that he belonged to a zealous family of Jews. His teacher was the great Gamaliel, a doctor of the law and the leader of the strict sect of the Pharisees.

His citizenship (vv. 27, 28).

He was by birth a Roman citizen because Tarsus was the capital of a Roman province. In the providence of God the greatest apostle to the Gentiles was given the prestige of a free-born citizen of the empire. He was loyal to his country and proud of his citizenship.

STUDY TWINS TO FIND DIFFERENCES

Scientists Interested in Duplicate Human Beings.

New York.—Twins may be so bewilderingly alike that their own families see no difference in them, but scientists investigating just how, and how, these duplicate human beings do resemble each other.

Measurements taken on 15 sets of twins lately alike were described by Dr. Perkins and Laura Bliss of the unity of Vermont before the Eugenics Research association and the American Eugenics society in session here.

The sides of a pair of twins are frequently alike than their opposites, the investigation revealed. Insaline this, imagine a pair of like paper dolls folded over and a simple pattern. If one is cut in front of the other, both are the same way, the two sides will more likely to match than if one stands in front of the other and trace each other.

In simple symmetry of the twins the investigators examined the eyes, nose teeth, eyebrows, hair whorls, right-handedness, hand prints, and mentality.

It had previously suggested that a twin has a duplicate exactly like it would probably be an extremely symmetrical person himself, this two eyes and ears and hands be unusually alike. It was foreseen, that the identical twins less often symmetrical both than other twins who did not look alike, and who also were alike.

Mentality ins examined were found to be fairly similar in intelligence, sport stated. The youngest twins more alike than the older, but the similarities were surprising in answering questions waived inborn or inherited traits and abilities, it was found.

NERVES
Went to Pieces

"I suffered a long time, before I tried Cardui," says Mrs. Lillie Pruitt, 130 "E" St., Anderson, S. C. "I was badly run-down in health. My nerves 'went to pieces', and I had to go to bed. "I got so bad off, I could not bear to have anybody walk across the floor of my room. The least little thing upset me. Sometimes I became hysterical. I had bad pains in my back and sides, and my head and limbs ached. I had spells of aching, which almost set me wild.

"One day I saw where a woman, who had a trouble like my own, had been relieved by Cardui. I decided at once to try it. It began to help me from the very first. I took Cardui regularly, for several months, and my improvement was so remarkable my family and friends were delighted."
